Not illustrated. 1877 Excerpt: .commerce; then, as now, it was felt that something should be done. In that year the East India Company tried their best to bring into something like harmony the Indian currency with that of our country. To what expedient were these authorities reduced to have recourse? The silver currency of the East, the rupee, had to be brought into community with the gold currency, the sovereign of our realm, and this because our silver currency, being overstrained in value as much as 10 per cent., could never offer a starting point. It was, therefore, thought advisable to take the intrinsic standard of our gold system, 22 carats, or say 916 m.--not our standard of silver, 222 pennyweights (925)--as the standard at which the rupee (silver) should be coined or struck; thus leaving the rupee as near as possible 9 in the 1,000th part, say 9 m., behind...

Reviews

Comprehensive information for book fanatics. it had been written really completely and useful. I am happy to explain how this is the greatest publication i have read through in my very own life and can be the finest pdf for ever.

-- Virginia Collier I

I just began reading this pdf. It is actually written in straightforward words instead of hard to understand. Once you begin to read the book, it is extremely difficult to leave it before concluding.
