Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from On the Practicability of Codifying English Law: With a Specimen Code of the Law of Evidence This is a very useful work, and is now in progress, and in the end it will considerably reduce the number of volumes to which we shall have to refer, in order to find out what the statute law is. It is also a work requiring great care and labour, and questions of great nicety arise as to the partial or total repeal of statutes. One of such questions gave rise to a discussion in the House of Commons last session between two distinguished legal Members of the House. Into this part of the subject I do not propose to enter. I desire to consider what may be done to simplify and condense our unwritten law. On the 22nd November, 1866, a Royal Commission was issued, directed to some of the most eminent judicial persons - and other men of distinguished ability - to enquire into the expediency of a digest of law, and the best means of accomplishing that object, and of otherwise exhibiting in a compendious and accessible form the law as embodied in Judicial Decisions. This Commission made its First Report on the 13th May, 1867. It presents a very clear picture of the work to be done with respect to the unwritten law. It says: - The judicial decisions and dicta are dispersed through upwards of 1,300 volumes, comprising, as we estimate, nearly 100,000 cases, exclusive of about 150 volumes of Irish reports, which deal to a great extent with law common to England and Ireland. A large proportion of these cases are of no...
